Premier Aberhart Tells Ontario How People Exist In Alberta

Premier Aberhart, who has been in the East seeking funds for the new Social Credit government, painted a colorful picture of conditions in Alberta during a civic reception held in his honor at his former home in Seaford.

Appealing for whole-hearted support "down to the last man and woman in Ontario," Mr. Aberhart said: "You can't talk religion to a man who has had nothing to eat for three days and can get nothing for his wife and children at home. He won't listen to you. There are people starving in Alberta. There are women in Alberta who have worn nothing but gunny sacks for the past three years, dresses made from the bags in which the binder twine was wrapped."

"There are children in Alberta who have not tasted butter or milk in the last three years, although they live on farms. Their fathers have to sell all the milk the cows produce to live."

"Children are crying for food out in Alberta tonight. The boys and girls are hungry and they are your neighbors. Will Ontario listen? We are not asking for your money. We are asking for your support. We are asking you to pray for us and give us a chance to balance our budgets and don't listen to those who are attempting to destroy our credit before we get started. Give us your co-operation and we will buy your goods."

"If you allow us to fail, remember hungry hearts and wild-eyed men and women may turn to violence. We are fighting to save the people from revolution," he declared.

"One is impressed in looking around to see the large number of cars and every indication of prosperity. In Alberta they cannot buy cars or gasoline. Conditions in the province all most made me a Communist, although I have no use for Communism. Instead I turned to Social Credit."

"Alberta is the second richest province in the dominion per capita, although we have not as large a population as Ontario, and still we have distress and poverty in the midst of plenty. We have an abundance of wheat, coal and natural gas, and yet people are starving because we cannot sell it."

OFFICIAL VISITOR

The Most Worthy Provincial Grand Mistress Sister Murray of Edmonton paid her official visit to Irma and Wainwright lodges on Monday and Tuesday evenings respectively.

Owing to so many being busy with threshing there were a few vacant chairs at Irma. However 16 members were present and thoroughly enjoyed the helpful and inspiring address of their distinguished visitor. A most delicious supper was served at midnight and all enjoyed a happy time.

Tuesday evening three cars of members from Irma journeyed to Wainwright and spent another enjoyable evening along with over 30 members from Wainwright and eight from Auburndale. During the evening the Wainwright lodge advanced a new member to the Scarlet degree. This work was beautifully done and the visiting lodges felt that they had had a real treat in watching this very interesting procedure. Another splendid address was given by M.W. P.G.M. Sister Murray, also short talks by W. M. Sister Fraser of Auburndale, D.M. Sister Carter of Irma, Bro. Bruker of Wainwright, W. G. Bro. Miller of Wainwright, and others. Another evening was brought to a close with a very sumptuous banquet given by the Wainwright lodge.

UNITED CHURCH NOTES

A baptismal service was held in the Manse on the afternoon of Sunday, September 15th, when the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon M. White were baptised: Evelyn Rub, 4 years of age, and Raymond Gordon, aged 2 months. Rev. E. F. Kemp administered the rite in the presence of relatives and friends of the family.

The Irma church has the privilege of entertaining the Wainwright Presbytery on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Lay and ministerial delegates are expected from all points in the Presbytery, which extends from Tofield on the west to Edgerton on the east. In our Presbytery meetings we are brought into contact with the wider fellowship of the Church—a reminder that the local church is not an isolated unit, but is linked up with the Universal Church in its worldwide mission. Presbytery exercises a general oversight of the work within its bounds, and makes plans for the effective carrying on of the work. It also undertakes its share of the work of the whole church, in the matter of home and foreign missions, educational, social service and evangelistic effort, etc. Presbytery is always a stimulating reminder that we are a missionary church. The September number of The United Church Record and Missionary Review quotes the following from the late Rev. Edmund H. Oliver, former moderator of the church: "We need to be not only one country, but we need to be a Christianlike and a missionary church. The foe of United Canada is sectionalism; the foe of a Christianlike church is sectarianism; and we must wage unremitting warfare of the spirit against those divisive forces, whether it be in the church or state. Let it never be said that anyone in the United church, whether he be a moderator or member, speaks of any other Christian Church in this Dominion except in terms of appreciation, goodwill or understanding, too. I would not want to be associated with any church that is not missionary, which does not flame forth with enthusiasm to look beyond Canada and to the frontiers, to build up Christ's Kingdom."

Services next Sunday, September 22nd, at 11 a.m., 11 a.m., Roseberry 3 p.m., Irma, 8 p.m.

Rally Sunday will be observed in the Irma United church Sunday school on September 22nd, at the usual hour of 11 o'clock a.m. Everyone is cordially invited, especially the parents.

ASKS BONUS FOR LOW GRADE GRAIN

Vegreville, Sept. 16.—That the government should go further than is anticipated under its price fixing by the Dominion Grain Board and should actually give farmers a bonus on low grade wheat is the opinion expressed here following a meeting of the Vegreville Board of Trade.

Following a survey of this district it is stated that between 80 and 90 per cent of the grain grown this year will not grade better than 5, 6 feed, and unless the farmers can get some outlook by way of an actual bonus as suggested by Charles Gordon at the meeting the outlook is not very encouraging.

In making his plea for a bonus Mr. Gordon pointed out that the west is and has been paying enormous sums toward the protection of eastern industrialists and held that it was not asking anything out of the way when a request was forwarded that the federal government should under the present crisis come forward with some concrete relief to those in the west affected by recent frosts and other blights. The bonus, said Mr. Gordon, would be the most fair and economic method by which the farmers could be reimbursed and given a chance to carry on.

As it stands at present the price of No. 1 wheat has been set at 87½¢, but unless low grades and feed grains are also pegged the proportion of No. 1 grain in this district is so small that no good will come of the pegged prices as far as the farmers here are concerned.

The matter has been referred to a special committee of the Board of Trade to deal with.

SPORT PEEPS

Eddie Wenstob has been training in New Jersey under the expert coaching of Jack Dempsey himself. The "Mauler" was so taken with the style of the Viking boy, he offered to take over the Kaplinsky contract. When Eddie meets Phillips in the great Wembley Stadium, he will need all the Dempsey ideas, plus several mule-kicks in his gloves. Phillips is rated as a tough baby.

Baseball at times provides those exciting features at times which thrill the fans. "Pepper" Martin pulled a stunt the other day, that added greatly to his glory. With a man on first, a "line" drive steamed into Martin's mitt. The chap on first did not run as it looked like a sure out by a catch. So Martin dropped the ball, picked it up and tagged, and then stepped on the base to complete a double play. That's using the head for something besides a hat rack.

As the race for the pennants in the Big League nears the end, the indications are that no New York team will be in the World Series. For the moment it looks like Detroit and Chicago for the big event this year.

The greatest golfer in the world today appears to be Lawson Little. In the last thirty tournaments he has entered he has won every one, thereby breaking all records for consecutive victories. That shows he has either a "stand in" with Old Man Luck, or he has wonderful skill. And you had better believe it is not merely the favors of Mr. Luck, that produces those low scores.

Much interest is indicated in the coming battle between Joe Louis and Max Baer on September 24th. Louis is training at Pompton Lakes, where Wenstob received a fortnight of coaching. If they gave each other a workout, it would be interesting to know how Eddie performed. A win for the negro is predicted by many of the local followers of the roped arena.

The glory of the victory of Allison over Fred Perry is somewhat lessened by the information that Perry fell so hard he shook loose his right kidney. Yet he played on. No wonder it was "a stunning upset".

GLENDALE CLUB

The above club met at the home of Mrs. Goodwin on Thursday afternoon, September 5th, with a good attendance. Opening song, "There Shall be Showers of Blessings. The roll call was answered by a Pet Bug Bear. A reading by Mrs. Whiteley on how to raise poultry, a recitation by Mrs. New and a song by Mrs. Vallee were much enjoyed.

A raffle by Mrs. Goodwin and Mrs. Myers was won by Mrs. Lambert and Mr. Myers.

A reading by Mrs. Hudson and the singing of Old Black Joe brought an enjoyable afternoon to a close, after which a most delicious lunch was served by the hostesses. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Vallee on Thursday, October 3. Miss Kippin was a welcome visitor for the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Whiteley from Cloverdale, B.C., visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Whiteley and Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Whiteley last week.

Mr. Wm. Dalton and Dorethea and Miss O. Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin and Mr. Wm. Lawson visited at the New home on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Whiteley were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Prior on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Wm. Dalton was sporting a new Master Six over the week-end. Threshing is again under way in the Avonleigh district after being held up for a week.

TO SMOKE OR NOT TO SMOKE

To the Editor:—We are glad to see that "our daily papers have published some statistics re the use of tobacco."

This is a day of scientific investigation and research. Medical science is also making scientific pronouncements. According to Dr. C. L. Lansing, of Michigan, "60 per cent of all babies of cigarette smoking mothers die before they reach the age of two years, due to nicotine poisoning. A baby born of a cigarette smoking mother is sick—it is poisoned and may die within two weeks of birth."

The Evening Star of Washington, D.C., quotes the prominent Dr. Sinclair as follows: "Sixty per cent of the children of women who smoke excessively are either born dead or die within the first year."

Now, if 60 per cent die, say before two years, how long will the remaining 40 per cent live? Then how long will the Anglo-Saxon race survive? —Viking W. C. T. U.

Democracy And Liberty

Liberty, says Mr. Stanley Baldwin, is rooted in the English character and fostered and maintained by institutions which also have grown out of that character. That liberty is embodied in the parliamentary system which is the result of the obstinate determination of the English people to manage, individually and nationally, their own affairs. Mr. Baldwin says that system has grown out of the common sense and good nature of the people, who prefer elections to street fighting, and talking shop to revolutionary tribunals. The English, above all other peoples, have made a success of democracy and that success has been planted in the Overseas Dominions. The reason for this is added by The London Times as being a refusal to "wear our fetters in our souls." That freedom is the breath of democracy which protects the people from domination by one side or the other through the expression of opinion in the ballot box. It is, as The Times says, "the translation into action of our instinctive determination to resist any form of tyranny that has from time to time preserved us."

Mr. Baldwin reiterates that the price of liberty is eternal vigilance, and the more so in a democracy which is the most difficult form of government, and, therefore, the most worthy of giving our lives to make it a success. Thus Great Britain has the monition that it is not enough to sit with folded arms and believe that she has the greatest Government in the world. Tyranny takes many forms. It is constantly raising its head. One way of propaganda it has devised is to constantly bemoan that democracy has failed. According to Mr. Baldwin, it is the form of government which has won more triumphs than any other, and, therefore, should be cherished and cultivated as in times past. Self-government, which is democracy, has maintained in developing forms in England for eight centuries. No one is going to be able to tear it from its roots, which are laid in the English character.

When we review the history of the North American continent, we find that the struggle for liberty and self-government is written large over its pages. The Pilgrim Fathers left the old world in order that they might enjoy that religious liberty denied to them at home. The original American colonies revolted because self-government was withheld from them, and taxation imposed on them without their consent. The American Civil War was a life and death struggle for liberty. One long fight followed another in pre-Confederation days to win liberty and the rights of responsible government in Canada.

In the earlier days of the world's history, liberty could only be gradually won through bloodshed and death on the battlefield. Today it can only be retained and expanded through democratic forms of government, and by stern resistance to all movements, however subtle and apparently innocent, which tend to restrict the liberties of the people, and of individuals who in the aggregate are the people and the State.

Why have the peoples of Great Britain, United States and Canada laid such stress on individual liberty, and been willing to sacrifice all else in order to achieve it? The answer is, of course, that liberty is the greatest thing in life, and without it life is not worth the living. A slave may enjoy health and security, but lacking his God-given right of liberty he is denied that which is supremely greater, contentment and happiness.

It is not to be forgotten, too, that it is only in those countries where full and free democratic forms of government exist that liberty remains the priceless possession of the people. Yet we find in certain countries, where the people became lax in defence of their liberties, those very democratic forms were first utilized by would-be dictators to later deprive them of their liberties. And all over North America today there are organized groups, employing the very liberty which democracy has conferred upon them, to overthrow and destroy democracy.

It is necessary, therefore, for all people who prize liberty to be on their guard and resist every attempt, however veiled it may be, which is designed to restrict the liberty of themselves or others in even the smallest degree. Liberty once lost may be extremely hard to win back again.

Paying Their Way

Dionne Babies Contribute Indirectly To Revenue For Ontario

If the five little Dionne girls knew anything about such things as tourist traffic, gasoline taxes and the revenues of trade, they might preen themselves on their contributions to business and to the treasury of Ontario out of all proportions to what is expected of mere babes.

It has been estimated that the thousands of visitors to Callender are paying, approximately $12,000 a month in gasoline taxes to the province. The crowds who see the Dionne quintuplets average one thousand a day. Tourist traffic in the North Bay district has increased nearly forty per cent., creating an evident prosperity that reaches out to hotels, other purveyors and tradesmen of all kinds.

The five little girls are more than paying their way, and are returning to the province substantial dividends on the sympathy and public assistance that was so generously and promptly rendered to them in their precocious months of their young lives.

They are also supporting twenty persons, according to a report from Callender — their parents, three nurses, two maids for their mother, two hired men for their father, a cook, two orderlies, two special constables, three men to direct traffic, two hospital maids and Dr. Dufosse.

To their famous physician they doubtless owe more than, they can ever repay, but to everyone else they occupy a charming and cheerful position of independence in the sponsored knowledge that they are a personal and financial asset to Ontario. Thousands of men and families are unavailably on relief, drawing funds from the strained provincial treasury to which five year-old babies are indirectly credited with contributing such appreciable sums as $12,000 in gasoline taxes alone.

The contrast presents just another anomaly of life.—Peterborough Examiner.

Products Should Be Shown

Only Way To Interest China In Canadian Products

China, and particularly southern China, offers a huge and comparatively untapped field of opportunity to Canadian industry. Mrs. Beatrice Thompson, director of the advertising and publicity bureau of Hong Kong, China, and Malaya, declared at Montreal. She is visiting Canada's larger centres in connection with the proposed British Empire and China trade fair planned for December, 1936, at Hong Kong.

She said foodstuffs in particular were in demand. She estimated the potential consumption of imported butter at 13,000 tons annually, with proportionate opportunities for the sale of tinned milk and other foods.

"There is only one way to interest the Chinese in your exports," Mrs. Thompson continued. "Let them see your products for themselves. Merely to follow plans tried elsewhere and send out a commission on a brief visit is to court the same failure and lack of results that have been experienced in the past by other parts of the empire."

Deserves A Monument

Taxpayer Carries Burden Of World On His Shoulders

Someone should start a movement to build a monument to the average taxpayer. He is the man who keeps the home fires burning and makes the wheels of government go around. He has gotten himself into the position of a taxpayer by thrift, by spending less than he makes, by investing in the home town, by building a home first and owning a roof over his own head. To do it he has denied himself pleasures and luxuries that the spendthrift had in plenty. In every community man the abused and referred to slightly on many occasions, but in good years and bad years he is the backbone of the country, and without him there would be no government and no relief. He carries the burden that others shirk, many times without complaint, which he would often be justified in voicing. He is deserving a monument—a tall, enduring monument, for, like Atlas of old, bears the world upon his shoulders.—Cranbrook, B. C., Courier.

From January to June, 1935, Canada exported $103,449,000 of raw tobacco, 5,792,961 pounds of which went to the United Kingdom; 238,400 pounds to British West Africa; 52,885 pounds to British West Indies; 11,680 pounds to Belgium, and 7,513 pounds to other foreign countries.

Exhibit From Britain

Port Of London Authority Had Space At Toronto Exhibition

The Port of London Authority took space at the 57th Canadian National exhibition which opened at Toronto on August 23 and staged an exhibit representing the facilities provided in the Port of London to serve the great London market. The international character of London's commerce was emphasized by large-scale diagrams and mechanical devices illustrated the continuous flow of shipping in and out of the port.

The port authority have provided special facilities for dealing with Canadian trade, particularly at the Surrey commercial docks, and the trade has shown a marked increase during the last year or two. In a brochure specially prepared for the exhibition it is stated that "Canada wants to send more of her products and manufactures to Great Britain; yet many Canadians do not at present realize that London is Great Britain's premier port and serves Great Britain's greatest market. London provides the wealthiest and largest market for Canadian trade; the Port of London is the natural and obvious gateway to that market."

Will Try Borstal System

New Method Of Training For Youth In Penitentiaries

A system of training youthful delinquents similar to the Borstal system in the United Kingdom will be inaugurated in one of the penal institutions of Canada, Sept. 1, it was learned at Ottawa. Within four years it is hoped to develop plans embracing the whole Dominion so far as Borstal training is concerned.

If we are given one year for every 10 years of experimentation in Borstal training carried on by the United Kingdom, we shall be able to evolve a satisfactory system," declared one high government official. "The Borstal system has been in vogue in Great Britain for 40 years, the new methods are continuing to emerge. In Canadian penitentiaries there were 221 young men between the ages of 16 and 21. It is with a proportion of these that the training system will start.

A New Electric Lamp

Used Successfully In California To Attract And Kill Insects

A new electric lamp that attracts insect pests of field and orchard and then electrocutes them is in successful use in orchards, packing plants, slaughter houses and mushroom nurseries as the result of long experimentation by Prof. W. B. Herms of the University of California. The color of the light may be changed to the one most attractive to the insect pest. Around the light is a wire cage. Insects flying toward the light's glass coil are instantly electrocuted when they strike the wire cage. The head of the lamp contains transformers which supply electric power to the wire cage and to the lighted coil.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They ascend the hill, look around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy and Matthew Adam go Christmas shopping in a neighboring town. On their return to Pine Ridge, Nancy is amazed to see the Columbine residence all lit up, and asks Matthew if he knows why. He said: Let's go in and see. Then Nancy learns that she is having her debut, but in a different setting than had been planned for her in Boston. Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support to her request for books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and the Adam boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look presentable.

Now Go On With The Story

CHAPTER XVI

March "came in like a lamb," and continued lamb-like for so long that Nancy hung her fur coat at the very back of her closet, and concluded that spring had come. It was on one of these rare days when Aurora, deep in an orgy of housecleaning, ordered the girl emphatically to

"clear out," that Nancy decided to test the woodland trail to the hilltop where she had gone with Matthew three months before; and reaching the summit, dropped breathless at the foot of the old pine.

She had wanted to go out to the Adam ranch that morning, but it was "library day," and Mary Taylor, who would have taken her place behind the desk, was visiting in Pueblo. There was nothing to do but stay at home, and this was the sort of weather that made one long to "go somewhere"—surely too fine a day to remain indoors. So here she was, gazing off at that marvelous picture, with Pike's Peak looking only about a mile away; and at her feet a clump of Colorado anemones like those Matt had brought her from the ranch last week. Nancy wished that Aunt Judy, who so loved flowers, was here to see them.

Suddenly it struck the girl as unbelievable that she should be two thousand miles from home, alone on a hilltop under a pine that had (as Matthew Adam pointed out), viewed things that were part of the history of her country. If only this wonderful old tree could talk! Why, it had stood here in silence and watched that Indian and his boy approach the lonely cabin where a small Colorado Columbine was rapturously enjoying her first Christmas tree! Did it tug at its sturdy roots in an effort to send forth a warning? mused Nancy whimsically; and then said aloud:

"But I'd never have had these thoughts if Matt hadn't put them into my head, perhaps. He's a queer boy—Matt Adam—so awfully shy most of the time, and such a riot when he forgets himself. I never saw any one just like him. Mark's bright as a dollar, and one can have perfectly grand times with him; but there are days when I like his brother even more. Somehow Matt makes you want to protect him, he's so sensitive. And in that Tux the night of my—"

Nancy started, blushing as red as ever the approaching Matthew had. He smiled and apologized: "Sorry I scared you. Thought maybe you saw the truck bumping along the road down there. I caught a glimpse of an orange tank and made a guess that you'd be under it. Mother wants you for supper; and Dad has promised to fry chickens if you'll come."

"Does the invitation include Cousin Columbine?" asked Nancy as the young man dropped to the ground beside her.

"Of course. You can ride back with Luke when he gets the milk cans this afternoon."

"That's grand," smiled Nancy. "How did your mother know that I was crazy to go out to the ranch today?"

"She didn't. It's a farewell banquet for yours truly. I'm swapping jobs with Mark to-morrow. Uncle Tom needs some one a while longer, and Mark is fit to tie at missing so much of your society. He called Mother up this morning with a pathetic story which she fell for instantly, and proceeded to point out the fact that it was my duty to relieve him. Jack's going to drive me to Prairie Ranch to-morrow, and come home with Mark. I hope to thunder I'll be back in another week."

"I hope so too," returned Nancy sweetly; "but it's been wonderful for Jack, having this chance of stay with you people. I didn't dream your uncle would be laid up so long."

"Neither did Mark," laughed Matthew, "or it would have required even more persuasion to make him go! But it was Uncle Tom who fixed things so Dad and Mother could marry when they did, and they'd lend him anything from their sons to their last copper. Say, Nancy, have you decided when you're going East?"

"I wrote Dad yesterday that I thought we ought to stay till June. There are such a lot of things we want to see, Matt; and goodness knows if we'll ever come again."

"Of course you will! What makes you say a thing like that? Why—why if I thought—"

He didn't finish the sentence; and Nancy said demurely: "It's nice of you to want us to return! And we're going to miss you Adams a whole lot. That's straight, Matt. Yet I can't help wondering if when we once get home again this—well, the whole experience, won't seem almost like a dream. If you knew how I dreamed to come! I was scared out of my senses. You've no idea what an awful coward I am."

"Was, perhaps," Matthew corrected gravely.

Nancy threw him a little smile; then her face sobered.

"I'm not so sure the past tense is correct, Matt. Sometimes I think my courage has never been tested, and wonder how I'd show up in a pinch. It was pride that made me consent to come out here—that is, mostly pride. I wanted to help Dad, of course. We all did. But I'd never have come alone, Matt. I'm no heroine."

"I beg to disagree with you, lady. Jack says you never whimpered at giving up that glorious debut."

The girl raised her head in sheer surprise.

"He did?"

Matthew nodded.

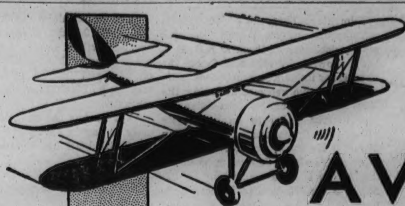

"Your kid brother thinks the world of you, Nancy. Didn't you know it?"

Nancy pondered that.

"I knew Jack was fond of me, of course; but when I hesitated about coming to Colorado he—he called me a parlor ornament, and—"

Matt laughed, his eyes shining as his mother's had when Nancy first saw her.

"What's the disgrace in being ornamental so long as you're something else besides? Look at our library, Miss Aladdin! Honestly, Nancy, Dad says he doesn't know any one who's accomplished so much in a short time as you have. And you've practically transformed Juanita Nancy laughed as she rose.

"That gown was an outrage, and if I'm accountable for its transformation Pine Ridge owes me a vote of thanks." Her eyes were shining now, and the dimple made its elusive appearance for a moment. "Come on home with me, Matt, and I'll smuggle you an apple turnover."

Ancient Villages Revealed

Three Distinct Sites Have Been Excavated in England

Some of the secrets of Maiden Castle, near Dorchester, Britain's best preserved pre-historic monument, recently revealed by excavations made by Dr. R. E. M. Wheeler, were described by him before the Society of Antiquaries at Burlington House, London, the other day. Three distinct sites had been excavated, he said. In the first he had found Neolithic pits filled with pottery of simple design, resharpened flint axes and other weapons. They had also cut into the site of a Neolithic village of about 2000 B.C. For the next fifteen centuries the site was without human occupation, owing to water shortage experienced on nearly all highlands of Europe. In the second excavation they cut across a bank reinforced with a palisade of one-foot timbers and a ditch fifty feet wide and thirty feet deep. They discovered twelve or fifteen hearths at different levels in the ditch filling. "On this site we found seventy-six Iron Age pits, used for dwellings, cooking and storage," Dr. Wheeler said.

One of the public rooms in the Queen Mary, British liner rapidly nearing completion, is so large that an ocean liner of 1840 could be placed in it, together with the entire fleet with which Columbus first crossed the Atlantic.

A pigeon was sold recently in England for $750.

They Come And Learn

Tourists From United States Finding Out About Canada

The Stratford Beacon-Herald says: The tourist habit is one of the best corrective elements which has made its appearance. When people come and find that here in Summer they know how limited has been their conception of this country. They will probably go home and tell other people. We can enjoy a good laugh at the expense of those who come in Summer armed and prepared for Winter, but the truth is the people from United States never knew any better. It is well they are finding out.

In Hawaii, there are football leagues in which the players do not wear shoes. The athletes develop great kicking accuracy and punt 50 yards with ease.

Little Helps For This Week

Be merciful unto me, O God, be merciful to me, for my soul trusteth in Thee; Yea in the shadow of Thy wings will I make my refuge, until these calamities be overpast.—Psalm 57, 1.

My God, in whom are all the springs Of boundless love and grace unknown, Hide me beneath Thy spreading wings Till the dark cloud is overblown.

In time of trouble go not out of yourself to seek for aid, for the whole benefit of trial consists in silence, patience, rest, and resignation. In this condition divine strength is found for the hard warfare, because God Himself fights for the soul.

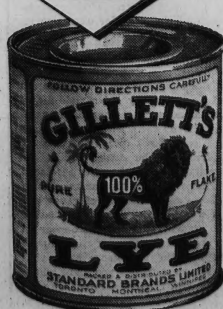

In vain will you let your mind run out after help in times of trouble, it is like putting to sea in a storm. Sit still, and feel after your principles, and if you find none that furnish you with somewhat of a stay and prop, and which point you to quietness and silent submission depend upon it you have never learned the truth from the Spirit of Truth.

What Italy Will Fight Besides Ethiopians

New York, Sept. 16.—Drugs, not numbers of fighting men, win wars in Africa, Emile C. Schurmacher, special correspondent, said on his arrival from Cairo today. He made a study of the use of drugs in savage and civilized warfare in Ethiopia, Tunisia and Tiff.

"At Djibouti, French Somaliland, the railroad where we embarked for Addis Ababa, French engineers described the custom of chewing kat, a native herb, which sends its users into a frenzy of action," Mr. Schurmacher said. "Frequently, they told us, tribesmen have chewed kat and then charged an oncoming locomotive with a spear and rhinoceros shield. Kat is rationed to native soldiers on campaign."

"The hakim, or native medicine man, constitutes a threat dreaded by every European invader. He is an expert well-poisoner. Algeria, Tunisia and Morocco were not really won until French and Spanish legionnaires threw troops around every oasis in the invaded territory and guarded it diligently."

"The French, seasoned campaigners, observed every sanitary precaution and by liberal use of modern drugs, antitoxins and vaccines, came through with a minimum of disease fatalities. The Spanish were more careless in their rifle campaign. As a result more of them came down with tropical sickness than were killed by Rifian bullets or knives."

Mr. Schurmacher listed dysentery, malarial mosquitoes and the tropical sun as the three great health hazards Italian troops will face in attacking Ethiopia. He added that every European army which has invaded Africa has brought back disease to Europe and warned of the danger to western civilization of a major epidemic that might result from an Ethiopian war.

POINTS ROADWAY LEADING CANADA TO PROSPERITY

Edmonton, Sept. 14.—Vigorously, uncompromisingly assailing the sound money doctrines of Premier R.B. Bennett; showing by fact and figure the depressive influences consequent upon a Conservative regime; stressing the fact that the Bennett administration had utterly failed to implement its pre-election promises of 1930, Hon. Mitchell Hepburn, premier of Ontario, in addressing a Liberal mass meeting at the Empire theatre on Friday night, appealed to that highest tribunal in all Canada—public opinion—to return a Liberal government to power on October 14 next and start the Dominion on its long-deferred trek back to prosperity.

Scoring Conservative stand-patism, he advocated support of the Liberal policies of monetary reform, nationalization of banks, low production costs and trade expansion.

"I am not here to complicate issues or to hurt persons," said Premier Hepburn, "I am here to reason."

Looking back over the election campaign that swept him into office, he said that the Henry administration had been strongly entrenched.

"But despite this and despite the fact that in the home stretch, the government had out-inductments such as a 10 per cent increase in relief allowances and increased opportunities for young people, we went into office with a large majority."

Recalling various features of the Henry administration Premier Hepburn stated that the assessed value of Ontario wealth was about three billion dollars. "Governments in power mortgaged the property almost to its full value," he said, and stressed the fact that governments had no money save that taken from the people by way of taxation. "But the people had become heartily sick of the extravagance of the Henry administration and turned them out."

"One would think that after the experience suffered by the Henry government in Ontario that Premier Bennett would be careful."

"Yet, a few days ago, Premier Bennett had the audacity and the temerity to say in a radio address, that he had fulfilled all his election promises of 1930 and more."

"If I recollect rightly, in that campaign, Premier Bennett promised he would complete the Trans-Canada highway or perish in the attempt; he promised to pay from the Dominion treasury the full cost of old age pensions; he declared he would blast his way into the markets of the world; he declared he would cure unemployment; he promised to reduce taxation and many more things."

"But the Trans-Canada highway is not completed; the Dominion has not borne the entire cost of old age pensions; unemployment has not been ured, as there are 1,257,000 people on relief in Canada, and I as provincial treasurer of Ontario fully realize the situation.

"The public debt has increased by $659,000,000 and new taxes have been put on textiles, sugar, sales and others. Some of his blasting back-fired on him and instead of blasting his way in, he blasted his way out of the market."

"Yet he has the audacity and temerity to say in his radio address that he fulfilled all his election promises and more."

"Ladies and gentlemen, I contend that this speech of two days ago reflected on the intelligence of the Canadian people. We know he is a great man politically and his contention remind me of a deathbed repentance."

Premier Hepburn then entered into a strong advocacy of the trade and economic policies enunciated by Rt. Hon. W. L. M. King, Dominion Liberal leader.

He was not impressed with the Bennett-Stevens trade and down shouting for reciprocal agreements when heretofore they had gone up and down the country shouting no truck or trade with the Yankees.

"Admitting that politics were all muddled up in the west, Premier Hepburn was confident that from Manitoba east, the Liberals would elect enough members to form a government, regardless of what the west did. But he urged that the west, in its own interests, return a majority of Liberals to assist in the good work."

He recalled that of the nine Dominion by-elections held last year, eight had gone Liberal and four by-elections held by the province of Ontario had returned Liberal government candidates. Therefore, he felt Ontario was secure for Liberalism, as were Quebec and the Maritimes.

Dealing with the famous episode by which the Ontario government sold bonds over the counter, Premier Hepburn declared that the financial interests, the coupon-clippers, agreed not to submit bids for a recent issue of $15,000,000. Then they sent emissaries round to dictate terms.

"But they did not get very far," he said. "We appealed to the greatest force in Canada, public opinion, to come to our aid, and we got along without the financial barons selling our bonds over the counter."

"We did not ask for $15,000,000 but for $20,000,000, and the loan was over subscribed in two days."

Premier Hepburn emphasized the pressing need for monetary reform. More than $1,500,000 every day was being paid in Canada on the national debt. "There must be a measure of controlled inflation," he said, "with a conversion of debts at lower interest rates. More important than Social Credit is consideration of the Liberal policy of monetary reform."

Many tales arrive at this department from time to time. Here is one that came in with this morning's mail:

"I had twelve bottles of whisky in my cellar but my wife told me that I had to empty the contents of each and every bottle down the sink. So I proceeded to do as my wife desired and withdrew the cork from the first bottle, poured the contents down the sink with the exception of one glass, which I drank."

"I then withdrew the cork from the third bottle, emptied the good old booze down the bottle, except the glass which I drank. I pulled the cork from the fourth sink and poured the bottle down the glass, when I drank some."

"I pulled the bottle from the cork of the next and drank one sink out of it. Then I threw the rest down the glass. I pulled the sink out of the next cork and poured the bottle down my neck."

"Pulled the next bottle out of my throat and poured the sink down the bottle and drank the cork."

Well at last I had them all emptied and I drank the house with one hand and counted the bottles, they were twenty-four, so I bottled them again when they came round again and I had seventy-four."

BOILS

Health Service of the Canadian Medical Association and Life Insurance Companies in Canada.

According to Mark Twain, the best place to have a boil is on the other fellow, a remark which will be appreciated by those who have suffered the pain and inconvenience of a boil, which, more often than not seems to select a most inopportune location.

Boils are caused by germs, which, penetrating the skin, set up the inflammation that goes on to the development of pus, the typical symptoms of what we know as a boil. These germs are constantly present on the skin and it is only under certain conditions that they seem able to penetrate the skin and to do harm.

When we say that boils are caused by germs, it is simply another way of stating that boils are contagious. It follows that clean hands and above all clean finger-nails will help guard against trouble, for if these are allowed to remain dirty, they are more than likely to carry germs with the dirt to the skin they touch.

Boils usually occur in crops. The condition which allowed the first one to develop, makes it easy for others to follow. Unless proper care is used in the treatment of the first boil, the germs may spread to another point and so, a second or third boil comes along.

It is dangerous to squeeze a boil. Nature sets up a wall which holds the infection at this one place. A squeeze may break this defensive wall and so scatter the germs, leading to a serious medical case so that the possible causes may be investigated and the treatment decided upon.

A boil is an infection and should be dealt with properly so as to remove the infection. If a second boil appears, there should be no delay in securing medical care so that the possible causes may be investigated and the treatment decided upon.

From what has been said, it will be evident that prevention lies in a healthy body, the product of good food, regular elimination, together with cleanliness of body and underclothes. Spread is controlled by proper care, not by careless home treatments.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.
